State [Party]: New Zealand reporting for time period from 01/01/2012 to 31/12/2012

New Zealand retains operational stocks of Change Directional Fragmentation M18A1 Claymores which are operated in the command-detonated mode only. These devices are not anti-personnel mines, as defined in Article 2 of the 1997 Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention and are therefore not prohibited under the Convention. The New Zealand Defence Force holds a very limited quantity of inert practice mines, used solely in the training of personnel in Mine Clearance Operations.

Mine Action Programmes:

UNMAS: In 2012 the New Zealand Aid programme provided untaged core funding to the UN Mine Action Service of NZ$1 million to support the organisation's work in removing and destroying mines, explosive remnants of war and stockpiles, and in risk education and advocacy. The New Zealand funding also supports UNMAS' work on medical assistance and rehabilitation of those affected by mines.

Cambodia: Clearance of Landmine-affected areas (2012-2014): New Zealand is providing US$1 million for mine clearance in north-west Cambodia. New Zealand's contribution is part of a larger contribution of US$2.5 million (NZ$3.27 million) for a three-year agricultural development project in heavily affected Odtar Meanchey province. The mine clearance funding by New Zealand will be conducted by the Halo Trust. The agricultural programme aims to reduce vulnerability and improve income and livelihood opportunities for the rural poor through integrated demining and agricultural value chain strengthening.

West Bank: New Zealand is providing NZ$2.8 million to UNMAS for a demining programme in the West Bank over the period 2011-2013. New Zealand's contribution assists with the clearance of mined locations to enable development and socio-economic activities by Palestinian communities. The programme will also assist with the development of a Palestinian Mine Action Centre (PMAC) capable of managing all aspects of mine action within the West Bank. During 2012, New Zealand also provided NZ$175,000 to the Office of the Quartet (UNDP) for the employment of a facilitation and logistical advisor for humanitarian access into the oPt, including access for clearance agencies and supplies.

Egypt: Agricultural Development (2011-2013): New Zealand has provided NZ$600,000 to the UNDP for agricultural development in Egypt's Western Desert region as part of the Egyptian Government's mine clearing and land development strategy.

Syria: In 2012 New Zealand provided NZ$500,000 to ICRC for operations in Syria including medical assistance and rehabilitation of weapon-wounded resulting from the Syria conflict.

Lebanon: In 2012 New Zealand provided NZ$250,000 towards ICRC operations in Lebanon which include assistance to those injured in the Syria conflict.

ICRC: The New Zealand Aid programme provides NZ$2.5 million each year in untagged core funding to support ICRC's work including physical rehabilitation, preventative mine action programmes which focus on risk reduction, education and advocacy work. The advocacy work aims to reduce the human cost of mines and explosive remnants of war. The New Zealand Aid programme also gives priorities funding to the World Bank which helps address the long term consequences of mines and unexploded ordnance of war on economic and social development.

The New Zealand Aid programme also priorities core funding to other UN agencies such as UNICEF, United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the Office for the Co-ordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), the Office for the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OCHCR) and the World Food Programme (WFP), all of which undertake mine action activities as part of their work.
