Seventeenth Meeting of the States Parties to the Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention

26 – 30 November 2018
Geneva, Switzerland
In 1997 the international community responded with unprecedented multilateral cooperation and called for determined action to rid the world of landmines. The signing of the Ottawa treaty was one of the highlights of my career at the United Nations. It provided us with great hope, not only for the disarmament agenda, but for the power of multilateralism in a world facing challenges of increasing complexity.

To a large extent, that hope has been validated; the determination of the States Parties has made the Ottawa Treaty one of the great successes of international diplomacy. [...] Following the implementation of the Cartagena and Maputo Action Plans, many have made considerable progress. [...] It is often the last stretch that is most difficult, but the progress thus far attests to what can be achieved. I hope we will see renewed dedication to ending the scourge of anti-personnel mines. The vision of a world free of landmines by 2025 is one we all share. We can and must make that happen. If we do, it will be a great triumph of human solidarity and an enduring testimony to how we can work together to eradicate a terrible injustice to some of the world’s most vulnerable communities.”

The Seventeenth Meeting of the States Parties (17MSP) is the formal, diplomatic meeting of the 164 States that have accepted to be bound by the Convention. These include most of the States that at one time used, stockpiled, produced or transferred anti-personnel mines and the vast majority that are or have been affected by anti-personnel mines. Several States that are not party to the Convention are attending as Observers.

The 17MSP, presided by Afghanistan and hosted by Switzerland, takes place 26-30 November 2018 at the United Nations Office at Geneva (UNOG).

This is the last formal meeting reviewing progress made by States Parties implementing the 31 actions of the Maputo Action Plan 2014-2019. The Meeting will also take stock of States Parties’ efforts to meet the Convention’s goals to the fullest extent possible by 2025.
Special Envoy of the Convention HRH Princess Astrid of Belgium addresses the 16MSP in Vienna. Princess Astrid is a long-time advocate of landmine survivors’ rights, and part of the landmine movement for nearly two decades. Belgium is also Chair of the Committee on Victim Assistance.

Newest Members! Sri Lanka and Palestine are the newest States Parties; the Convention entered into force for both on 1 June 2018.

ii. Other matters concerning implementation support

The Meeting will be asked to agree that the 2019 intersessional meetings take place on 22-23 May and morning of 24 May 2019.

In keeping with the Presidency’s mandate, the 17MSP President undertook the task of consulting with States Parties to identify a list of nominees to serve as new Committee members following the meeting. On 25 May 2018, the President wrote to all States Parties indicating the search for two new States Parties for each of the four Committees for two-year terms. On the basis of interest expressed, the President developed a proposal listing those States Parties that would serve as new Committee members beginning at the end of the 17MSP for a two-year term – not precluding any decision that may be made by the Fourth Review Conference concerning the Convention’s implementation machinery.

If this proposal is agreed to by the 17MSP, the following eight States Parties would start their new two-year membership term at the end of the 17MSP:

- Committee on Victim Assistance: Chile and Italy
- Committee on Article 5 Implementation: Austria and Canada
- Committee on the Enhancement of Cooperation and Assistance: United Kingdom and Turkey
- Committee on Cooperative Compliance: Iraq and Switzerland

Risk Education: sharing of experiences from the Middle East
ROOM: XXVI
HOST: Geneva International Centre for Humanitarian Demining (GICHD)
There has been a sharp increase in global victim numbers since 2015 largely as a result of the victims from the Middle East. This stems from the use of improvised mines and other IEDs, combined with ongoing conflicts, limited access and large population groups of IDP’s and refugees on the move. There is a high demand for Risk Education services but the context for delivery is fraught with challenges. Donors have increased their funding towards Risk Education in the region but how effective is it? What are the lessons learnt in these developing situations? This side event draws on current experience of Risk Education implementation in the Middle East to provide a ‘situation report’ and suggest recommendations to improve and strengthen Risk Education tools, approaches and delivery.

IMSMA Core update – data standardisation and visualisation
ROOM: XXV
HOST: Geneva International Centre for Humanitarian Demining (GICHD)
Providing an update on how mine action authorities are rolling out and using IMSMA Core. The IMSMA Core user meetings which will start as from 2019 are introduced; providing an opportunity for the community to share experiences and good practices on IM and GIS for mine action. The GICHD will demonstrate how a standard common set of data requirements from mine action programs can ensure programs abilities to fulfil reporting obligations and enable analysis of mine action data at a global level.

Victim Assistance Experts Meeting
ROOM: XXII
HOST: Committee on Victim Assistance

A Victim Assistance Experts Meeting running in parallel to the Seventeenth Meeting of the States Parties is being hosted by the Committee on Victim Assistance. Committee Chair, Belgium, together with members Croatia, Ecuador and Mozambique supported by the Implementation Support Unit (ISU) are holding the two-day meeting to focus on victim assistance aspects of the Maputo Action Plan, in particular Action 15.

Taking into account local, national and regional circumstances, States Parties are to “do their utmost to strengthen local capacities, enhance coordination with subnational entities as relevant and appropriate, and increase availability of and accessibility to appropriate comprehensive rehabilitation services, economic inclusion opportunities and social protection measures for all mine victims, regardless of their gender and age. This entails removing physical, social, cultural, economic, political and other barriers, including expanding quality services in rural and remote areas and paying particular attention to vulnerable groups.”

At the meeting, experts can exchange experiences and best practices, reflect on needs and challenges and learn about initiatives currently undertaken in areas of inclusive development, assistive technology, and on the ongoing efforts on indicators for disability and Sustainable Development Goals, among other issues of interest for Action 15 implementation. Furthermore, participants can learn about opportunities available for victim assistance implementation under a European Union Council Decision including a 2019 Global Conference on Victim Assistance; as well as the upcoming Fourth Review Conference. Victim Assistance Experts’ views and input is particularly valued to contribute to the success of these important events.

IN MEMORIAM

As we gather for this Victim Assistance Experts Meeting, we remember two colleagues who for decades worked tirelessly to advance the rights of all persons with disabilities including landmine survivors. Their contribution to their national programmes and the disability rights world will be forever remembered.

Dr. Ahmed Yousif, Sudan’s Mine Action Centre
H.E. Chan Rotha, Cambodia Mine Action and Victim Assistance Authority
In March, in his capacity as Special Envoy, Prince Mired visited Sri Lanka where it encouraged Sri Lanka to promote the Convention and its norms among SAARC Members that have not yet joined. He also visited the Jaffna Rehabilitation Centre which provides services to landmine survivors and other persons with disabilities.

Serbia and Sri Lanka with the support of the Committee on the Enhancement of Cooperation and Assistance, Chaired by Canada and members Algeria, Sweden and Thailand, held an individualized approach meeting to highlight to partners and stakeholders, its remaining challenges to implement the Convention and develop partnerships for faster completion.

In the margins of the 2018 intersessional meetings, Sudan briefed participants on its mine clearance completion in Kassala, Gedaref and Red Sea states, also known as Sudan Eastern States. Back in Sudan, local communities celebrated the news including with Kassala dancing. Congratulations to all partners who have made this possible. Photo right, courtesy UNMAS.
The Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention is a short reference to the 1997 Convention on the Prohibition of the Use, Stockpiling, Production and Transfer of Anti-Personnel Mines and on Their Destruction, also known as the Ottawa Convention. It is the international community’s comprehensive response to the humanitarian problems caused by anti-personnel mines, indiscriminate weapons that last for decades after conflicts have ended.

The Convention was born from the human tragedy caused by mines in a number of countries throughout the world. In the early 1990s, non-governmental organisations working in war-torn countries brought the suffering and casualties caused by anti-personnel mines to the world’s attention.

After several regional conferences and a worldwide campaign to bring awareness and support for a comprehensive humanitarian ban on landmines, the Convention was adopted in Oslo, Norway on 18 September 1997. It opened for signature in Ottawa on 3 and 4 December 1997, at a ceremony that featured the participation of dozens of world leaders, and entered into force on 1 March 1999.

For their determination in calling for the Convention, the International Campaign to Ban Landmines and its co-ordinator Jody Williams were awarded the 1997 Nobel Peace Prize.

At their Third Review Conference in 2014, the States Parties adopted at a high political level the Maputo +15 Declaration, committing to intensify efforts to promote universal adherence and observance of the Convention’s norms, destroy stockpiled anti-personnel mines, address mined areas, assist mine victims and expressed their aspiration to meet their goals to the fullest extent possible by 2025. At the same Conference, States Parties further adopted the Maputo Action Plan 2014 – 2019 to guide their efforts.

Presidency of the Convention

In 2018, the Convention is presided by H.E. Suraya Dalil, Ambassador of Afghanistan to Switzerland and the UN in Geneva. Afghanistan sees that the Convention is not just about clearing mined areas but about committing to protect and ensure that landmine survivors are able to exercise their human rights and participate in society on an equal basis with others in their community.

Throughout 2018, the Convention President encouraged mine-affected and all other States to actively engage in partnerships to accelerate meeting the Convention’s aims. As the Presidency, Afghanistan also worked to promote the Convention among those States that have not yet joined, in particular with those in Central and South Asia.
What is the purpose of the Convention?

The purpose of the Convention is “to put an end to the suffering and casualties caused by anti-personnel mines” through the pursuit of four core aims:

- universal acceptance of a ban on anti-personnel mines;
- destruction of stockpiled anti-personnel mines;
- clearance of mined areas; and,
- assistance to mine victims.

164 States have ratified or have acceded to the Convention. They include:

- most of the States that at one time used, stockpiled, produced or transferred anti-personnel mines;
- the vast majority of States that are or have been affected by anti-personnel mines;
- every State in the Americas, except Cuba and the United States;
- every State in Sub-Saharan Africa;
- every Member State of the European Union; and,
- the majority of ASEAN Member States.

How many countries have joined?

There are 33 States not party to the Convention, including one signatory State*:

Armenia  Israel  Micronesia, Federated States of Azerbaijan  Kazakhstan  Mongolia
Bahrain  Korea, DPR of  Morocco
China  Korea, Republic of  Myanmar
Cuba  Kyrgyzstan  Nepal
Egypt  Lao PDR  Pakistan
Georgia  Lebanon  Russian Federation
India  Libya  Saudi Arabia
Iran  Marshall Islands*  Singapore

Syrian Arab Republic
Tonga
United Arab Emirates
United States of America
Uzbekistan
Vietnam
b What has been the Convention’s impact?

Use of anti-personnel mines has decreased dramatically – by ratifying or acceding to the Convention, 164 countries have agreed to not use anti-personnel mines. Most States not party adhere to the Convention’s norms.

Production has decreased significantly – 34 of 50 States that previously manufactured anti-personnel mines are now bound by the Convention’s ban on production. Most States not party have placed moratoria on production and/or transfers of mines.

The number of stockpiled mines has been significantly reduced – destruction of stockpiled mines is one of the Convention’s greatest success stories – together, the States Parties have destroyed more than 51.5 million mines; 159 States Parties no longer have stockpile destruction obligations under the Convention.

Millions of square metres of once dangerous land have been released for normal human activity – 30 of 61 States Parties that have reported mined areas have completed the task of clearing all such areas. Annual casualty rates have fallen significantly in many countries.

The Convention has served as a catalyst for drawing attention to the plight of landmine survivors – and hence the challenges of all persons with disabilities – in some of the world’s poorest countries. The Convention is the first arms control/disarmament instrument to take the needs of survivors into account. States Parties have agreed that victim assistance should be integrated into broader national policies, plans and legal frameworks, including those related to the rights of persons with disabilities.

c What are the remaining challenges?

Destroying stockpiled anti-personnel mines (Article 4)

A State Party has four years after entry-into-force of the Convention for that State Party to destroy all stockpiled anti-personnel mines it owns or possesses, or that are under its jurisdiction or control.

Together three States Parties still have approximately 5.1 million stockpiled anti-personnel mines to destroy.

Retaining anti-personnel mines for permitted purposes (Article 3)

There are 75 States Parties which have reported 149,562 anti-personnel mines retained for the development of and training in mine detection, mine clearance, or mine destruction techniques as permitted by Article 3 of the Convention.

A number of States Parties have not reported on the use or plans for the use of retained anti-personnel mines in accordance with the purposes permitted by Article 3, and/or have retained the same number of anti-personnel mines for a number of years.
Destroying anti-personnel mines in mined areas (Article 5)

A State Party shall make every effort to identify all areas under its jurisdiction or control in which anti-personnel mines are known or suspected to be emplaced. Each State Party has ten years to destroy all anti-personnel mines in mined areas and return these areas to a state for normal human activity. If a State Party is unable to do so in ten years, it may ask for an extension of its mine clearance deadline.

To date, 31 States Parties\(^6\) are still in the process of fulfilling their mine clearance.

\(^6\)Two States that have recently acceded to the Convention - Palestine and Sri Lanka may confirm that they have mine clearance obligations in their initial transparency report due under Article 7 of the Convention; should they do so, their Article 5 deadline would be 1 June 2028. In addition, Mozambique, since declaring completion in 2015, has indicated that four suspected areas remain underwater and that no intervention in these areas can be carried out at present.
Assisting the victims (Article 6.3)

Each State Party in a position to do so shall provide assistance for the care and rehabilitation, and social and economic reintegration of mine victims and mine awareness programs.

Twenty nine (29) States Parties have indicated having a significant number – hundreds or thousands – of landmine survivors for which they must provide care.

Efforts continue towards ensuring that victim assistance is integrated into broader national policies, plans and legal frameworks related to the rights of persons with disabilities, health, education, employment, development and poverty reduction, while ensuring that landmine victims receive the urgent support they require.

National implementation measures (Article 9)

Each State Party shall take all appropriate legal, administrative and other measures, including the imposition of penal sanctions, to prevent and suppress any activity prohibited to a State Party under this Convention undertaken by persons or on territory under its jurisdiction or control.

Sixty-one⁷ (61) States Parties have not yet reported having either adopted legislation or whether they consider existing laws to be sufficient. Some of these 61 States Parties have reported having drafted specific legislation which is pending adoption while others have reported that legislation is being considered but have not provided updated information on the status of legislations for a number of years.
