Fostering Partnerships

Global Conference on Assistance to Victims of Anti-Personnel Mines and Other Explosive Remnants of War, and Disability Rights

Amman, Jordan 10-12 September 2019
CONVENTION ON THE PROHIBITION OF THE USE, STOCKPILING, PRODUCTION AND TRANSFER OF ANTI-PERSONNEL MINES AND ON THEIR DESTRUCTION

In 1997 the international community responded with unprecedented multilateral cooperation and called for determined action to rid the world of anti-personnel mines. Since then, 164 States have agreed to,

“put an end to the suffering and casualties caused by anti-personnel mines, that kill or maim hundreds of people every week, mostly innocent and defenceless civilians and especially children, obstruct economic development and reconstruction, inhibit the repatriation of refugees and internally displaced persons, and have other severe consequences for years after emplacement.”

Article 6.3 states,

“Each State Party in a position to do so shall provide assistance for the care and rehabilitation, and social and economic reintegration, of mine victims and for mine awareness programs. Such assistance may be provided, inter alia, through the United Nations system, international, regional or national organizations or institutions, the International Committee of the Red Cross, national Red Cross and Red Crescent societies and their International Federation, non-governmental organizations, or on a bilateral basis.”
Fostering Partnerships seeks to provide national disability rights and victim assistance experts, decision-makers and persons with disabilities – including mine survivors – with opportunities to further explore challenges and good practices to align efforts to meet the needs and guarantee the rights of mine survivors, with efforts carried out under the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) and those undertaken to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Fostering Partnerships, chaired by His Royal Highness Prince Mired Raad Zeid Al-Hussein and hosted by the European Union from 10-12 September 2019 in Amman, Jordan, counts with technical support of the Convention’s Implementation Support Unit (ISU).

Fostering Partnerships is carried out in the context of Decision (2017/1428), adopted by the European Union Council to support States Parties’ efforts to implement the Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention.
Greetings from Kampala where mine survivors and other persons with disabilities gathered for a national stakeholder meeting with the Ministries of Education, Health, and Gender, Labour and Social Development, together with non-governmental organisations, Norway and the European Union to kick off the process to develop a new national policy on disability and a national disability action plan.

The National Stakeholder Dialogue was sponsored by the European Union.

TUESDAY 10 SEPTEMBER

09:00 – 10:00

1 Official opening of the meeting: Realising the Rights of Victims of Anti-Personnel Mines and other Explosive Remnants of War

HRH Prince Mired Raad Zeid Al-Hussein
Chairman of the Board, Jordan National Committee for Demining and Rehabilitation
Special Envoy of the Convention and Chair of Fostering Partnerships

His Royal Highness has been engaged in the work of the Convention for more than a decade and a half. HRH presided over the Eight Meeting of the States Parties (8MSP) by the shores of the Dead Sea in 2007, and has served as Special Envoy since 2009. Prince Mired is also deeply engaged in matters related to disability rights. He is Chairman of the Board of the Jordanian National Committee for Demining and Rehabilitation; Chairman of the Hashemite Commission for Disabled Soldiers; and, President of the Higher Council for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

H.E. Maria Hadjitheodosiou
Ambassador, Head of the European Union Delegation to the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan

Maria Hadjitheodosiou is the newly appointed Ambassador. A career diplomat, H.E. has worked with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Office of the President of Cyprus, and was previously the Ambassador / Deputy Permanent Representative of Cyprus to the European Union.

H.E. Hans Brattskar
Ambassador of Norway to UN Geneva
President of the Convention and Oslo Review Conference

Prior to being appointed to Geneva, Hans Brattskar was Ambassador and Special Adviser for Conflict Prevention and Peacebuilding Operations at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. H.E. also served as State Secretary (Deputy Minister) and as Ambassador to Sri Lanka. In addition, he has served in Washington D.C., Kenya, Somalia and Malaysia.

Maria Soledad Cisternas Reyes
UN Secretary-General’s Special Envoy on Disability and Accessibility

Prior to the current appointment, Maria Soledad Cisternas Reyes was Chairperson of the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD). She is also the recipient of the National Prize of Human Rights (2014-2015). She has a Law degree (graduated with highest honours) and a Master’s in political science from the Universidad Católica de Chile, and has been awarded the title of Supreme Court attorney.

Tun Channareth
Cambodia Campaign to Ban Landmines

Tun Channareth is a long-term advocate for the rights of mine survivors and other persons with disabilities and one of the pioneers of the landmine movement. In 1997, Tun Channareth represented mine survivors at the Nobel Peace Prize Ceremony in Oslo and has since served as Ambassador for the International Campaign to Ban Landmines. Tun Channareth leads projects on rehabilitation and socio-economic inclusion at the Cambodian Campaign to Ban Landmines/Jesuit Refugee Services in Siem Reap, Cambodia.
Danlami Umaru Basharu
Chairperson of the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (via video)

Since 2018 Danlami Umaru Basharu has been the Chairperson of the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities supporting States Parties to the CRPD in implementing the rights-based instrument. He has been the Director of the Anglo-Nigerian Welfare Association for the Blind for over two decades, and holds an LL.M. and M.A. (Hon.) from Cambridge University.

In Memoriam: Aya Aghabi, Founder, Accessible Jordan

This Jordanian organisation provides information on all accessible places in Amman and tourist destinations across Jordan, and works with businesses, other organisations and individuals to improve accessibility to their work and home spaces.

Aya Aghabi, the creative force behind its establishment, returned home to Jordan after studying at the University of California at Berkeley, USA, to instil change so that all persons with disabilities could enjoy what Jordan has to offer.

Aya Aghabi died unexpectedly on 19 August 2019. She had been scheduled to join this distinguished panel. We recognise and honour her tremendous legacy.

2 Overview of the Programme

What can we expect from three days of work, how will things unveil? Meet the conference presenters who will put and keep things in perspective and will introduce the audience to new technologies that provide space for immediate feedback known as Sli.do. Get familiar. Open your phone browser and type sli.do, enter code #8260 and provide feedback. No applications to download.

Brig. Gen. (Ret) Mohammad Breikat
National Director, Jordan National Committee for Demining and Rehabilitation (NCDR)

Mohammad Breikat has been the National Director of the NCDR since May 2005. He was a helicopter pilot with the Royal Jordanian Air Force for 29 years retiring with the rank of Brigadier General.

Juan Carlos Ruan
Director, Implementation Support Unit (ISU), Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention

As Director of the substantive secretariat of the Convention, Juan Carlos Ruan provides strategic advice, briefings, communications and other services to the States Parties. Juan Carlos Ruan is also responsible for the substantive development of formal and informal meetings of the Convention, logistics of the meetings when these are held abroad, and for leading the work of ISU staff during these conferences.
3 Plenary Session One

Where Have We Come From? Where Are We Going? The State of Play in Victim Assistance

In 2019, the Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention commemorates 20 years since entering into force. The Convention has been a pioneer instrument in recognising the needs of the victims of a particular weapon. The session will take stock of the last two decades of efforts in translating victim assistance provisions (in particular Article 6.3) into practice. It will also seek to identify key remaining challenges to better address the rights and needs of mine survivors and other persons with disabilities.

To do so, the panel will consider the following questions:

1. How far have we come in delivering the Convention’s promise to mine survivors?
2. What is the status of victim assistance and what its relevance in today’s world?
3. How has international human rights law altered the landscape in which we carry out victim assistance commitments?
4. What are the main challenges that remain in carrying out victim assistance efforts?
5. What can be achieved in the next five years following the Oslo Review Conference?

Moderator:

Dr Ken Rutherford, Director, Centre for International Stabilization and Recovery, and Professor of Political Science at James Madison University

Ken Rutherford is also the co-founder of the Landmine Survivors Network (LSN) which pioneered techniques in war victim assistance, providing thousands of amputees with peer mentors and artificial limbs.

Ken Rutherford is an advocate for the global prohibition on anti-personnel mines and a renowned leader in the Nobel Peace Prize-winning coalition that spearheaded the Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention and the 2008 Convention on Cluster Munitions.
Programme

Panellists:

HRH Prince Mired Raad Zeid Al-Hussein has been engaged in the work of the Convention for more than a decade leading the work of the States Parties in 2007, and serving as Special Envoy since 2009. Prince Mired is also deeply engaged in matters related to disability rights. He is President of the Jordanian National Committee for Demining & Rehabilitation; the Hashemite Commission for Disabled Soldiers; and, the Higher Council for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

Murielle Marchand is in charge of disarmament affairs at the Permanent Representation of Belgium to the UN in Geneva. She is also a senior member of the Convention’s Committee on Victim Assistance, chairing the Committee in 2018. Ms. Marchand has a background in international human rights law and international humanitarian aid.

Martha Hurtado is Deputy Commissioner of Descontamina, the Colombian Mine Action Programme. In this capacity, she has worked on enhancing Descontamina’s operability from a right-based approach. She is a fierce advocate of international humanitarian law including by working as Adviser for the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement for nearly a decade. Martha Hurtado is a PhD candidate and has an international public law and relations background.

Sister Denise Coghlan has been a leading force in the landmine movement for the past 30 years first working in the Thai-Cambodian refugee camps in the 1990s where she began her mine ban advocacy work. Sister Denise leads the Cambodia Jesuit Refugee Service, and is also member of the Governance Board of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines and Cluster Munition Coalition (ICBL-CMC).

Jesús Martínez founded Red de Sobrevivientes y Personas con Discapacidad (Survivors and Persons with Disabilities Network), after surviving a mine explosion at 17 years of age. His foundation supports victims of armed violence and persons with disabilities to reintegrate in society by providing skills and advocacy training, and physical and psychological support. His passion has brought him to speak before the United States Congress on the need for victim assistance in post-conflict societies.
Greetings from the National Stakeholder Dialogue on Victim Assistance held in Baghdad, Iraq with participation of relevant ministries, regional directorates and civil society to kick-off the process to draft a new disability and victim assistance national action plan.

The Zimbabwe Mine Action Centre (ZIMAC) hosted key ministries involved in the provision of assistance to mine victims and the area of disability rights such as Public Service, Labour and Social Welfare, Women Affairs and Youth and Sports. Fostering partnerships among these various ministries and integrating victim assistance (VA) onto wider contexts such as labour, health and social welfare can help Zimbabwe in effectively meeting its VA obligation under the Convention.

Greetings from Juba! This group of mine survivors and persons with disabilities met in South Sudan in July 2019 to kick-off the development of the first National Action Plan on Disability. The National Stakeholders Dialogue was sponsored by the European Union.
4 Parallel Session One

Advancing Integration of Victim Assistance into Broader National Policies and Programmes

Mine action centres play an important role in victim assistance; most of these centres however, will cease to exist following completion of mine clearance programmes. States Parties have agreed to embed victim assistance beyond these institutions and into broader national policies, plans and legal frameworks related to the rights of persons with disabilities, health, education, employment, development and poverty reduction. This would ensure that in the long-term, mine victims’ rights are guaranteed and their needs met in a sustainable manner.

With the purpose of building awareness of the need to increase integration of victim assistance into broader sectors and domains, panellists will be asked to consider the following questions:

1. In practice, what does “integration of victim assistance into broader policies and programmes” mean?
2. What approaches can be applied to ensure that the rights and needs of mine survivors and other persons with disabilities are addressed in the most sustainable manner?
3. There has been some concern that victim assistance implementation is losing momentum as it gets increasingly integrated into broader frameworks. Is this concern warranted? If so, what can be done to address it?

Moderator:

Sheree Bailey, disability rights and victim assistance expert, Brisbane, Australia

Sheree Bailey is a well-respected expert who for more than 15 years worked with and for survivors and other persons with disability including five years as Victim Assistance Specialist in the substantive secretariat of the Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention, the Implementation Support Unit.

As a Victim Assistance Specialist, Sheree provided strategic advice to government authorities in affected States to develop, implement and monitor plans of action to address the rights and needs of survivors and other persons with disabilities. Sheree Bailey was appointed a Member of the Order of Australia “for service to humanitarian aid through the International Campaign to Ban Landmines, and through programs assisting survivors.”
Panellists:

Habib Khan Zazai is a 27-year veteran of mine action that currently heads the Victim Assistance Department at the Directorate of Mine Action Coordination Centre in Afghanistan. In such capacity, he supports the State Ministry for Disability Affairs including in developing a national disability and victim assistance strategy.

Zoran Ješić is Senior Expert Associate at the Ministry of Security in Bosnia and Herzegovina. He is responsible for developing rehabilitation projects for war veterans with disability through sports, and works on improving access to human rights for mine survivors. In addition to his official work, he is an active member of various associations and institutions that support integration and sports in the country, a Victim Assistance Coordinator at the Organisation of Amputees UDAS, as well as founder, player and long-time captain of the Volleyball Club for Disabled “Banja Luka”.

Dr. Worawut Smuthkalin works at the Permanent Mission of Thailand to the UN in Geneva and is responsible for, among others, disarmament issues. He has been working for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Thailand since 2006. He holds a Doctorate in East Asian studies from the Department of Political Science at Stanford University in California, in the United States.

Elke Hottentot has worked in the field of local and international development and humanitarian action for over 25 years. Her specialization lies in the area of disability, community rehabilitation, participatory development and mine action. She works with Humanity and Inclusion as an Armed Violence Policy Lead with a specialty in victim assistance. Elke Hottentot is a trained physiotherapist with a Master’s degree in Community Rehabilitation and Disability Studies and a certified yoga teacher.

Dr Ekkehard Strauss is the Senior Human Rights Adviser at the Office of the UN Resident and Humanitarian Coordinator in Jordan. For nearly two decades he held different positions within the UN Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) and as Representative of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Mauritania. He holds a Doctorate degree in international law and human rights from the University of Potsdam, Germany.

Oksana Leshchenko is currently serving as the Development and Mine Action Policy Specialist at the United Nations Develop Programme (UNDP) Crisis Bureau. In this capacity, she works on policy advice and programme support linking mine action to development, achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), peace building and reconciliation, and governance. She was critical in preparation of UNDP’s Strategic Framework on Development and Mine Action (2016).
14:15 – 16:00

5 Parallel Session Two

Placing Inclusion, Gender and Diversity in the Centre of Efforts

The States Parties have recognised that to be effective, victim assistance efforts should be carried out with a number of principles in mind, namely inclusion and consideration for gender and diversity. These principles also guide the work of disability rights actors working under the slogan, “Nothing about Us without Us”.

With the purpose of stressing the value of these principles and approaches in national policies and programmes, panellists are asked to consider the following questions:

1. What hinders the full and meaningful participation of mine survivors and persons with disabilities in the development, implementation and monitoring of relevant policies and programmes?
2. What are the dangers in failing to apply inclusion, gender equality and diversity in our efforts?
3. How can we better measure our efforts in advancing inclusion, gender equality and diversity?
4. What concerted efforts need to be made to better ensure inclusion and achieve measurable progress?

Moderator:

Abia Akram is the founder of the Special Talent Exchange Program, leads the Asia Pacific Women with Disabilities United, and chairs the UNICEF Global Partnership for Children with Disabilities.

Abia Akram is a world-renowned advocate for the rights of persons with disabilities, including through her work on the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. Ms. Akram holds a MA in Gender and International Development from University of Warwick, United Kingdom.
Panellists:

Mariam Abdoulaye is the Head of the Department of Victim Assistance Services at the Chad National High Commission for Mine Action. Part of her work involves tracking and identifying casualties, raising awareness among affected communities of services available, and facilitating victims’ and survivors’ access to those services, including income-generating projects. Mariam Abdoulaye holds a Master’s in public law and political science.

H.E. Hans Brattskar is the current President of the Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention, and Permanent Representative of Norway to the United Nations and other International Organisations in Geneva. Prior to this, he was Ambassador and Special Adviser for Conflict Prevention and Peacebuilding Operations at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Norway. H.E. also served as State Secretary (Deputy Minister) at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and as Ambassador in Norway’s Embassies in Washington D.C., New York, Sri Lanka, Kenya, Somalia and Malaysia.

Margaret Arach Orech is the Director of the Uganda Landmine Survivors Association, Commissioner to the Interfaith Action for Peace in Africa coalition and board member of Uganda’s National Council for Disability. As honorary Ambassador of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines (ICBL), Margaret has promoted the rights of landmine survivors and persons with disabilities for more than a decade. She was awarded the European Union 2018 Human Rights Defenders Award for her efforts on behalf of persons with disabilities and mine survivors in Uganda, and campaigning on disarmament, peace and disability.

Marion Provencher is a Programme Officer in the Gender and Mine Action Programme at the Geneva International Centre for Humanitarian Demining (GICHD). Her work includes contribution and provision of technical assistance, training, outreach, and research on gender and diversity in mine action. She was involved in activities related to feminism and LGBTQ, and holds a Master’s degree in Anthropology and Sociology of Development.
16:00 – 17:15

Parallel sessions one and two report back to plenary
Moderators present brief reports of the two parallel sessions to the plenary and respond to questions from the floor:

- Sheree Bailey
- Abia Akram

18:00

Welcome, Opening Reception

Hosted by the European Union and the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan
Location: Bourj Al Hamam Terrace
InterContinental Hotel

On 29-30 2019, representatives of government and civil society including mine survivors and persons with disabilities met in Mogadishu, Somalia at a first national workshop to start the process of drafting a national VA/disability action plan. The meeting was sponsored by UNMAS and Japan and had the technical backing of the Implementation Support Unit.
Voices of Inclusion: Meet Nijaz Memic

Nijaz Memic lost a leg when he stepped on an anti-personnel mine during the war in his native Bosnia and Herzegovina. He did not however, lose his drive.

After the war, Nijaz became a member of the sitting volleyball league at the Sports Association of Disabled Persons “SPID” but soon after craved some speed. He turned then his interest to skiing.

In 2009 Nijaz became the first athlete from Bosnia and Herzegovina to qualify for international Paralympian competitions. He continued his solo sports career becoming the first, and sole, Bosnia and Herzegovina athlete to compete at the 2010 Winter Paralympic Games in Vancouver.

Nijaz is also interested in providing youth with awareness on the risk of mines. In nearly two decades, Nijaz has provided over 3,000 presentations about the risk of explosive remnants of war to school children across the country, and founded the only inclusive ski school in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

“Integration... or reintegration into society was a very difficult path,” said Nijaz Memic. “I realised the extremely important role that sport can play. It is almost indispensable.”

His work has been recognised with an Award for Special Contribution to the Development of Sports for Persons with Disabilities (2016), and a UNICEF and European Commission Award for his contribution to inclusion through sports.
08:45 – 10:30

2 Plenary Session Two

Shaping Policy and Programmes through Data Collection

Quality and timely data is needed to ensure that limited resources are used in the most effective and efficient manner. This includes information on the number of mine victims and persons with disability, the challenges they face and their needs. Mine action centres, health and injury surveillance systems, service providers and national censuses collect casualty data which informs policies and programmes on victim assistance in most mine-affected States. In some States, policy-makers and service providers use data from national surveys on disabilities to address victims’ needs.

With the purpose of improving data collection and management in mine-affected and least-developed countries, panellists are asked to consider the following questions:

1. What are the key lessons learnt in terms of victim assistance/disability data collection that could help improve efforts in this regard?
2. To what extent can data requirements be met through national health and injury surveillance, national census and other mechanisms?
3. What can be done to ensure a consistent approach in data collection?
4. What can be done to create a central/unified national data base with essential information available to relevant stakeholders?
5. What are the most useful tools and support available for resource scarce contexts?

Moderator:

Loren Persi, Casualties and Victim Assistance Research Coordinator, Landmine and Cluster Munition Monitor

Loren has been conducting research with the Monitor on victim assistance since 2004.

Previously, Loren Persi worked as research consultant with the Geneva Academy on global conflict casualty recording, with the United Nations Development Programme on regional small arms control, with Humanity and Inclusion (formerly Handicap International) on victims’ rights and disarmament advocacy, and with Standing Tall Australia on the legislation and implementation of victim assistance. He holds a Master’s in Political Science (Peace Studies).
Panellists:

Mao Bunnhath is the Director of the Victim Assistance Department of the Cambodian Mine Action and Victim Assistance Authority (CMAA). He is responsible for coordinating victim assistance activities with all in-country stakeholders, data collection and reporting. Mao Bunnhath contributed to the development of Cambodia’s National Disability Strategy Plan 2019-2023 and National Mine Action Strategy 2018-2025. He holds a Master’s in Business Management and Administration and a Bachelor’s in Economics.

Abia Akran is a world-renowned advocate for the rights of persons with disabilities, including through her work on the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. She also leads the Asia Pacific Women with Disabilities United, founded the Special Talent Exchange Program and chairs the UNICEF Global Partnership for Children with Disabilities.

Hussein Ahmed has worked in Somali mine action for over a decade in various capacities.
3 Parallel Session Three

Leaving No One Behind: Improving social and economic inclusion

Following medical care and rehabilitation, it is essential to provide mine survivors with support to get back into society, including returning/going to school, finding employment or learning new and adapted skills. Yet, achieving social and economic inclusion of mine survivors has been one of the most prominent challenges in mine-affected countries. It is perceived that unless there is a boost to national economies, mine-affected countries will continue to struggle to succeed in this regard.

With the purpose of increasing our understanding of the complexity and need for strengthening social and economic inclusion and the need for more efforts in this regard, panellists are asked to consider the following questions:

1. Given resource scarcity in many mine-affected countries, what can be done to increase social and economic inclusion among mine survivors and persons with disabilities?
2. How can we achieve an inclusive society where all persons with disabilities, including mine survivors, enjoy their full rights on an equal basis with others?
3. What can be done to “not leave behind” mine survivors/persons with disabilities, as aspired by the 2030 Agenda?
4. What can be done to reach the most vulnerable groups, such as mine survivors and persons with disabilities living in remote areas?

Moderator:

Elke Hottentot, Policy Lead Armed Violence Reduction, Handicap International Federation – Humanity and Inclusion, Geneva

Elke Hottentot has worked in the field of local and international development and humanitarian action for over 25 years. Her specialization lies in the area of disability, community rehabilitation, participatory development and mine action.

For more than two decades, Sandra Darce has worked with persons with disabilities in areas of inclusive education, social work, capacity building and legal frameworks training. She is also the General Secretary of the Latin American Network of Organisations of Persons with Disabilities.
4 Parallel Session Four

Reducing Loss of Lives and Limbs; Improving Emergency Response & Protection

Injuries and deaths caused by anti-personnel mines and explosive remnants of war have increased in recent years. Given the severity of injuries and trauma caused, an effective and efficient first response is vital if we are to increase survival rates. An effective emergency response can save lives and limbs and ensure the safety of survivors and persons with disabilities in at-risk situations and during humanitarian emergencies. Persons with disabilities including mine survivors remain among the most vulnerable during natural and man-made disasters.

With this in mind, panellists are asked to consider the following questions:

1. What improvements are required in current emergency response activities including other phases of pre-hospital care?
2. How can we apply Article 11 of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities “Situations of risk and humanitarian emergencies” in mine affected countries?
3. What good practices are available to ensure the safety of persons with disabilities including mine survivors before, during and after disasters?

Moderator:

Dr. Muhannad Alazzeh, Secretary General, Higher Council for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities of Jordan

Dr. Alazzeh holds a Ph.D. in comparative criminal law and bioethics and a high diploma in good governance, public policy and anti-corruption. He is also a former senator in the Jordanian Senate.

An Afternoon of Learning and Exploring: Field Visits

Jordanian National Paralympic Committee

LOCATION: Sport City Area Al Riyadhah Street. Amman
CONTACT: Adnan Telfah, a.telfah@ncdr.org.jo

The Jordanian Federation for Disabled Sports was established in 1981 on the International Year of Disabled Persons, and in line with the philosophy and constitution of Jordan towards building and progress. The Federation has been chaired by His Royal Highness Prince Raad bin Zaid.

The Federation aims to provide access to sports for persons with disabilities, training programs and advanced courses and the opportunity to participate in inclusive sports, competitions and international Paralympic tournaments.

An inclusive sports demonstration will take place during the visit.

* Pre-registration required.

Hashemite Commission for Disabled Soldiers

LOCATION: Location: Al Madeneh Al Tbieh
CONTACT: Adnan Telfah, a.telfah@ncdr.org.jo

The idea of establishing an organization in Jordan to provide social support and services to disabled soldiers was first proposed in 1996.

At that time it had become clearly evident that disabled soldiers in the Kingdom were not receiving the care and attention that they deserved and that there was a general lack of awareness and understanding of the magnitude of the problem. After much deliberation, His Majesty the Late King Hussein bin Talal, God Rest His Soul, ordered the establishment of the ‘Hashemite Society for Disabled Soldiers’ and provided the organization with initial funding to get started

* Pre-registration required.

Sir Bobby Charlton Centre for Support and Rehabilitation
/ Asia Therapy Centre / Asia Development Training
“ADT” Centre

LOCATION: Wasfi Al Tal Gardenz St – Alnaser Complex
Building No. 85 – 2nd Fl.

The work at the Sir Bobby Charlton Centre is conducted by Asia Development Training, while activities are supported by the Sir Bobby Charlton Foundation (formally Find A Better Way). The Centre is the hub linking to other vital activities such as prosthetics provision. This is funded through the Polus Center and U.S. State Department’s Bureau of Political-Military Affairs.

The work of Asia Development Training is guided by a principle objective: “We strive to create opportunities for persons with disabilities to live meaningful and productive lives within their communities.” ADT provides Rehabilitation Services, Medical Treatment & Prosthetics, Special Treatment and Training Courses. The Sir Bobby Charlton Foundation focuses on providing funding to local organisations to work with victims of conflict.

6  Report back to plenary on parallel sessions three and four

Moderators present brief reports of the two parallel sessions from the previous day and respond questions from the floor.

- Elke Hottentot
- Dr Muhammad Alazeh
7 Plenary Session Three

Improving Rehabilitation in Mine-Affected Countries

Persons who survive mine accidents often acquire severe impairments, including amputations, requiring physical and functional rehabilitation support throughout their lives. Rehabilitation has been at the centre of victim assistance efforts to meet these persons’ needs. Health care, including rehabilitation, in most mine-affected countries however, is often disrupted by conflicts and hampered by scarce resources. States face serious challenges in the provision of sustainable rehabilitation services to persons with disabilities including mine survivors.

This session seeks to explore and recommend creative, strategic and realistic solutions to overcome challenges in physical and functional rehabilitation. Experts are asked to consider the following questions:

1. What are the main challenges hindering the delivery of rehabilitation services in mine-affected countries and how might these be overcome?
2. How can the rehabilitation needs of persons with disabilities including mine survivors best be met through broader development frameworks, such as the SDGs?
3. What are the pros and cons in advanced assistive technologies versus old assistive technologies in the context of mine affected countries?
4. Are there any untapped opportunities that can be leveraged for the delivery of physical and functional rehabilitation?
5. How can we improve partnerships to enhance comprehensive rehabilitation efforts for persons with disabilities including mine survivors in mine affected countries?

Moderator:

Dr Maryam Mallick, Technical Adviser, Disabilities, Rehabilitation, and Injury Prevention, World Health Organization (WHO)

Dr Mallick is a public health professional and a medical rehabilitation specialist with a post-graduation from the Royal College of Physicians London. She has been instrumental in efforts to improve access to Assistive Technology (AT) at the global, regional and national level and in the adoption of a regional and a global resolution on Assistive Technology by the World Health Assembly in May 2018.

Dr Maryam Mallick is also a pioneer in establishing the Polio Rehabilitation Initiative in Pakistan, Yemen and Afghanistan for polio affected children and introducing Community Based Rehabilitation programme after the 2005 earthquake. She has also been credited for formulating the first Pakistan Disability Bill and development of the National Disabilities and Rehabilitation Strategic Action Plan 2019-2024.
Panellists:

Myriam Ernestina Céspedes Castillo, is an Adviser at the Ministry for the Participation of Persons with Disabilities of Colombia and Adviser to the Presidential Council for the Participation of Persons with Disabilities. She is also coordinator of the Group for Inclusion of Persons with Disabilities. Myriam Céspedes has experience in institutional coordination for the design and implementation of social public policies within the framework of the National Disability System and the National Disability Council of Colombia.

Marc Zlot is the Physical Rehabilitation Program Coordinator of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) in Geneva. He oversees physical rehabilitation activities of the organisation worldwide. The ICRC is one of the key providers of rehabilitation support to mine survivors and other persons with disabilities in mine-affected countries. ICRC is also an Observer of the Convention and its Coordinating and Victim Assistance Committees.

Dr Firas Tamween Abdulla Onaizah works at the Directorate of Medical Operations and Specialized Services in the Department of Rehabilitation at the Ministry of Health of Iraq. Dr Onaizah is also specialised in rehabilitation.

Kirsten (Kiki) L. Lentz has worked in the Humanitarian Mine Action (HMA), Victim and Survivor Assistance (VA), and the disability domain for more than 20 years in myriad complex socio-political, conflict, and economic situations. Holding a degree and practitioner license in Physiotherapy and a Master’s Degree of Public Health, with a concentration in International Health, Community Health and Development, Human Rights and Complex Medical Situations, has allowed Ms. Lentz to combine a unique skill set to address the needs of persons with disabilities and victims and survivors of conflict under the umbrella social inclusion, disability inclusive development, and education, health, and rehabilitation systems.

Kamel Sa’adi is the Founder of the Life Line for Consultancy and Rehabilitation (LLCR), a Jordanian non-profit and has worked on mine awareness and victim assistance projects for nearly two decades. In 1979, after losing his left leg to a landmine blast, Kamel devoted himself to helping others in similar situations, and became part of global movement to ban landmines. Through LLCR Kamel Sa’adi provides physical rehabilitation support to Syrian and Jordanian mine and other explosive remnants of war victims. He holds a degree in Prosthetics / Orthotics from Pittsburgh, in the United States.
Parallel Session Five

Measuring Impact; Can Assistance and Rights be Measured?

Victim assistance as a cross-cutting issue is often associated with various domains such as disability, health, development, poverty reduction, human rights, education, labour, and protection among others. While data is much needed to direct decision-making for national policy, measuring impact and existing gaps and challenges in implementation across domains can be a complex and time-consuming process for donors and service providers. Data can show how far we have come, what has gone wrong and how resource allocation has been effective in meeting the needs and rights of mine survivors and by extension, all persons with disabilities. The absence of a baseline however, makes measuring impact nearly impossible.

With the purpose of exploring how to improve measurability in victim assistance including in broader frameworks of disability, this session will seek to answer the following questions through expert presentations and small-groups work.

1. What does it take to put in place functional mechanisms in developing countries, to continuously track progress, identify and fix challenges in victim assistance?
2. What tools are available to help States in measuring impact?
3. How can we measure progress to achieve the victim assistance objectives and make demonstrable progress in the next five years?

Co-Moderators:

Jaime Chissano (Mozambique), Chair of the Convention’s Committee on Victim Assistance

Jaime Chissano is Minister Plenipotentiary at the Permanent Mission and Embassy of the Republic of Mozambique in Geneva and Chair of the Convention’s Committee on Victim Assistance.

He has previously served as the Head of Africa Union Department at the Africa and Middle East Directorate in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Co-operation of Mozambique. His previous postings include Luanda, Angola; Stockholm, Sweden; and Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. Mr. Chissano holds Master’s degrees from Addis Ababa and Geneva Universities.

Murielle Marchand (Belgium), Senior Member of the Convention’s Committee on Victim Assistance

Murielle Marchand is in charge of disarmament issues at the Permanent Representation of Belgium to the UN in Geneva. Prior to that she was posted in New York and Stockholm and worked in refugee camps in Lebanon. Murielle Marchand has been a member of the Committee on Victim Assistance since 2016, chairing the Committee in 2018. She has a background in international human rights law and international humanitarian aid.
Expert Presenters

Irena Mitro is Head of Policies and Strategies for Social Protection and Integrated Services of the Ministry of Health and Social Protection of Albania. During her professional life, she has concentrated in areas concerning social integration of Persons with Disability in line with the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, including on legislation and policy formulation on Inclusion and Accessibility and the 2016-2020 National Action Plan for Persons with Disabilities. Irena Mitro has also participated in ministerial groups for social integrated services, and monitored access to services.

Loren Persi is the casualties and victim assistance research coordinator of the Landmine and Cluster Munition Monitor. He has been conducting research with the Monitor on victim assistance since 2004. Loren Persi has previously worked as a research consultant with the Geneva Academy on global conflict casualty recording, with UNDP on regional small arms control, with Humanity and Inclusion on victims' rights and disarmament advocacy and with Standing Tall Australia on the legislation and implementation of victim assistance. He holds a master's in Political Science (Peace Studies).
9 Parallel Session Six

Improving Psychological Support, Taking Advantages of Peer-to-Peer Support

Amputees often endure long and painful recovery processes following a traumatic injury, such as that caused by a mine or explosive remnant of war. Survivors often experience a loss of self-confidence, anxiety and fear. Therefore, psychological (professional support by psychiatrists and psychologists) and psychosocial support (peer-to-peer counselling and other forms of social support) is key in successful social and economic reintegration. Yet, psychological and psychosocial supports are not always available to survivors.

With the purpose of increasing understanding concerning psychological and psychosocial supports and their long-term impact, panellists will consider the following guiding questions:

1. Why is this such a critical aspect of victim assistance and why then the lack of attention?
2. What are the remaining challenges and gaps in psychological/psychosocial support that should be addressed?
3. Who should take the lead in filling the gaps in this regard, and why?
4. In the absence of adequate resources, what can States do to meet minimum standards in psychological/psychosocial support?
5. What tools and resources are available for policy makers and practitioners of psychological/psychosocial support?
6. Why should psychological/psychosocial support be placed at the centre of victim assistance efforts?

Moderator:

Firoz Alizada, Implementation Support Officer, Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention Implementation Support Unit, Geneva

Firoz Alizada is an Implementation Support Officer with the Convention’s substantive secretariat, the Implementation Support Unit (ISU) in Geneva. His work includes supporting States Parties to the Convention in implementing victim assistance provisions.

15:15 – 16:45

11 Plenary Session Four

Cooperation and Assistance; Fostering Partnerships

Victim assistance receives support through international humanitarian mine action cooperation and assistance as well as through other international and national sectors, such as human rights, disability, health, poverty reduction, development, human rights and so on. Yet, States Parties to the Convention with significant numbers of landmine survivors continuously report that shortages of resources hinder efforts to meet the rights and needs of mine victims.

With the aim of seeking solutions to the issue of resources in victim assistance, panellists in this session are asked to consider the following questions:

1. Are we following the right approach to secure resources for victim assistance?
2. What can mine- and ERW-affected States do to include victim assistance in other funding streams such as health, development and poverty reduction?
3. What tangible actions would you suggest States Parties take to generate support for the implementation of the victim assistance aspects of the Oslo Action Plan?
4. Who should fund victim assistance, and why?

Moderator:

Selma Guso was born to capture attention. Her degree in communication and her stint as a journalist proves it well. She remembers being a young carefree child like many others. One day, at age 10, she and her cousin strolled through the forest in a fun excursion not knowing that an explosive remnant of the war that had torn her Bosnia and Herzegovina was lying dormant. Her life was never the same.

As a young urban teenager she faced looks and incomprehension. Yet no one could stop her at the swimming pool. She became member of the first swimming club for persons with disabilities, SPID in her native country. At competition, Selma won the 50m and 100m breaststroke at various meets including the Croatia Swimming Championship. Selma is now using her skills to bring a new perspective to the lives of young survivors, appearing often in newscasts, speaking in mine action fora and even more dear to her heart, to kids on the risk of mines that sill litter Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Holmes Fabian Ordoñez Guapando grew up in a war-torn region of Colombia where he and his seven siblings worked as small farmers after his father died unexpectedly when he was just a small child. His mother was a true beacon in his life, making the impossible possible and providing Fabian with access to education. A month after graduating, Fabian who had returned home ready to practice what he had learned far away from his homestead, stepped on a landmine, which turned his life upside down.

While his family and faith helped him overcome what he had endured, meeting others who had experienced a similar fate provided much needed support. Soon, Holmes realised that through a dedicated network of peers, he could reach and support countless others who had experience loss and grief. It was only a matter of time before his leadership skills kicked in; he founded a regional network of mine survivors who are now looking to be part of a national victims’ board. In this process he has learned to interact with various layers of government and event met the President of Colombia (and Nobel Peace Prize Laureat). Fabian has also learnt an important lesson: that of the power of press and social media networks, where you can find him often.

The Implementation Support Unit (ISU) is the substantive secretariat to the 1997 Convention on the Prohibition of the Use, Stockpiling, Production and Transfer of Anti-Personnel Mines and on Their Destruction. The ISU is mandated to support the Convention’s States Parties to the Convention, in particular by doing the following:

- Providing support to all States Parties through support to the Convention’s implementation machinery and office holders,
- Providing support to individual States Parties, including by providing advice and technical support on implementation and universalization,
- Communicating and providing information about the Convention,
- Keeping records of formal and informal meetings under the Convention; and,
- Liaising and coordinating with relevant international organisations that participate in the work of the Convention.

The ISU is directly accountable to the States Parties while being hosted by the Geneva International Centre for Humanitarian Demining. The ISU is funded on a voluntary basis by States Parties to the Convention.
